

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Mialie T. Szymanski is a contributing writer for The Weekly Villager in Garrettsville, Ohio. She is the author and illustrator of the bi-weekly children's story time column "Puppy Tails," starring Doodle Dog, a floppy-eared puppy who has an optimistic perspective of the world around him.

Her debut picture book "Doodle Dog Enjoys the Day" was released in September 2011 and chronicles a day in the life of this "paws"itive pup. The upcoming read-aloud anthology "Puppy Tails: Adventures of Doodle Dog" is a collection of the columns and illustrations as seen in The Weekly Villager over the last year.

Mialie earned her master's degree from Hollins University where she specialized in children's literature, middle-grade fairy tales, and young adult fantasy.

When she's not serving as scribe for a curious floppy-eared puppy, Mialie participates in local art events as a medieval storyteller, relaxes with one of many crafty hobbies, and chases dragons with her cat ~ and any other friendly creature that wants to come along.

Visit www.weeklyvillager.com or www.sMialie.com for more information about her work.